Art-in-Buildings is pleased to announce a temporary mural project at 310W by Milwaukee- based artist Jaime Brown.

Activating the storefronts of 310W, downtown Milwaukee's iconic blue tower, artist Jaime Brown will bring her bold, colorful style to the space through an ongoing mural project with Art-in-Buildings. Painting over the course of two MKE Night Markets on July 13th and August 17th, viewers are invited to engage with the artist as she constructs this site-responsive piece during one of Milwaukee's largest community events. The final pieces will be on view throughout the summer, visible from the outdoor plaza and brightening the space for passersby.

Jaime Brown is a Native American and Muslim artist with public art that can be found around the world from Dubai to Morocco and everywhere in between. Her love of bold colors and integrating symbols into her shapes are expressed in her designs for the public to enjoy.
